English presentations at Cologne zoo

Yesterday our class went to the Cologne zoo. First we went to the train station. There we faced the first problem! Some pupil didn't have their bus tickets so they had to buy new tickets. When we were in the train, some kids heard music, practiced their presentations or just talked. After a while we had to change trains, but this wasn't a big problem for us.

When we arrived at the zoo, all kids wanted the unicorn balloon. We didn't have to buy the tickets ourselves. We had to queue in a line then we got our ticket. When we were in the zoo Mrs. Euskirchen and Mrs. Harmat gave us a map of the zoo. We should go in little groups. So I joined Sassi, Laura and Aliya. All groups decided to go in the same direction so we took another one.

We took a picture of almost each animal. Finally we visited the reptile house. It was so stinky, but after a while we got used to it. Then I felt like I had a heart attack, because I saw a fat and big tarantula! It was terrible! I ran away and the other girls just laughed, and at the end it was indeed very funny. When we left the reptiles we met some friends. We needed to have a break so we looked out for a bench. There we ate some sweets. There was a wending machine where we made some zoo memory coins. After that we went to the elephant cage. They were very big, huge and impressive. But then we had a serious problem. We couldn't find the tiger cage. After a long time of studying the map we finally found it. We took some excellent pictures there. We checked the watch. It showed 11:15 o'clock, so it was time to go back to the class.

Then the presentations began. Sometimes the animals were so loud, that nobody could understand the group which presented their presentation at the moment. After some presentations we went to the sea lion show.

They were so cute and they could perform some really cool tricks like jumping over a rope or bringing back a football.

It was so hot, that after some other presentations the class needed a break. So almost the whole class bought some ice-cream or nachos with cheese. At the end some class mates bought some jelly beans.

When we drove back with the train it was very funny because we sat in the second deck.

Actually the whole day was very cool!!!
